

SAMPADA SAVARDEKAR, PhD, is a teacher of the Bhagawad Gita, Sanskrit and Indian Culture. Her special area of research is Sanskrit Linguistics. She has worked at IIT-Mumbai in the wider field of Computer Linguistics. She is also a published writer.

Sampada completed MA in Sanskrit from Pondicherry University (2005). Her PhD in Psychology focused on “The Secret of Action in the Bhagawad Gita – A Critical Study” from Pondicherry University. Her special interest is in extracting the essence of the ancient spiritual texts of India, as well as references found in Kavya and moulding the teaching to benefit the youth of today, through education and practical guidance.

An accomplished Indian classical dance performer, Sampada has given recitals in several countries including the USA, Mauritius, France, La Reunion and India. She is currently based in Paris (France).